Introduction

This is TIME dotCom Berhad's Business Integrity and Anti-Corruption Policy ("Policy"). It sets out Time's policy and general principles, guidelines and processes to minimise and eliminate Time's exposure to the risk of unlawful conduct relating to bribery and corruption.

These guidelines deal with anti-bribery & corruption, general business courtesies and obligations of third parties engaged by Time and are built upon the foundation of our Code of Conduct.

This Policy is applicable:

- To all of our Employees, management, directors (executive and non-executive), whereby this Policy supplements the Employee Handbook;
- To all of our consultants, advisers, service providers, suppliers, vendors, contractors, agents, or third parties engaged by us or any of their employees, contractors, senior managers or directors ("3PPs"), with added emphasis on the provisions set out in Section 3; and
- To all of our customers or any of their employee, senior manager or director ("Customers") who subscribe to certain services provided by Time.

This Policy is applicable worldwide.

Engaging in corrupt or bribery practices can bring severe consequences to Time and to yourself, which extends beyond criminal penalties such as imprisonment and fines. The act of, or the perception of engaging in such behaviour also carries with it the risk of reputational and financial losses toward the Time Group.

The key principle underlying this Policy is:

“Integrity Above All Else”

This is a value that is embedded in each and every one of us. It is our intention to foster a culture where all our internal and external stakeholders behave honestly, reflecting our zero tolerance towards bribery and corruption.

How to spot bribery or corruption?

“If it looks or feels wrong, it probably is wrong.”

This Policy reinforces Time's commitment to demonstrating that each and every Employee carries a fiduciary duty to act in the best interests of the Company and thus requires us to uphold the highest level of integrity and good governance in our conduct. A fiduciary is someone who undertakes to act for or on behalf of another, whether of a general or specific character; and it is immaterial whether he/she is contractually bound to do so.

TIME dotCom Berhad and its subsidiaries are committed to, and promise to:-

- Conduct business in an honest and ethical manner, acting fairly and with integrity in all business and regulatory dealings;
- Abide and uphold laws relating to the prevention of bribery and corruption in all jurisdictions in which we operate.

It is your responsibility to read, understand and adhere strictly to this Policy.

Your attention is drawn to Section 5 of this Policy, which sets out the consequences of non-compliance of this Policy. This includes, but is not limited to summary dismissal or termination of contract, as well as exposure to criminal liability.

It shall be your responsibility to report any suspected, threatened or actual breach of this Policy or its underlying principles, and any person making such report is assured the same protections as set out in the Whistleblowing Policy.

No Employee will suffer retaliation or discriminatory or disciplinary action (e.g. demotion, penalty, or other adverse consequences) for reporting in good faith violations or soundly suspected violations of this Policy or for refusing to engage in activities inconsistent with our fiduciary duties, even if such refusal may result in a loss of profit to Time.

While this Policy is written in simple terms, its application may not always be straightforward. If, at any time you are in doubt, please contact Time's Compliance and Ethics Officer ("C&E Officer") for further assistance and guidance.

2.0 General Business Courtesies

2.1 General Rule

A general business courtesy is one where you offer to pay for a certain item or service for a customer, supplier or a Government Official. It may be a gift, meal, entertainment or travel (“GMET”) and can be a normal and healthy part of building business relationships.

As a general rule, Time will not offer or accept GMETs to encourage or reward a decision and does not condone the act of offering or accepting GMET by its external stakeholders to encourage or reward a benefit given or to be considered for Time.

Because we operate in many countries, different cultures have different attitudes to what is acceptable and may also form part of general business etiquette. As such, we need to respect these differences, while staying true to our Policy by exercising proper care and judgement, anchored always on the Mandatory Principles outlined below, before offering or accepting GMET.

These principles will even apply to situations where you pay for meals, entertainment or travel, or provide a gift for Time's business purposes and do not intend to seek or claim reimbursement from Time.

2.2 Mandatory Principles in Relation to GMET

Corporate Personnel and 3PP shall comply with the following mandatory principles when it comes to GMET:

- Compliance with Applicable Laws, regulations and policies. You must comply with the letter and spirit of the applicable local laws (in particular laws relating to bribery and / or corruption) when offering or providing GMET. The same shall also apply to other ancillary regulations and policies.
- Consistency. The GMET must be consistent with the laws and regulations in both countries of the person extending the offer as well as of the country of the person receiving it.
- Business Purpose. The GMET must be for a legitimate purpose, such as to promote, demonstrate or explain Time's services, network, business or position;
- No Improper Influence. Giving of GMET to a recipient MUST NOT place the recipient under any obligation or with the intent of compromising the recipient's objectivity in making a decision that affects Time, the Counter-Party or yourself. The sole intent or purpose of the GMET shall be to build the business relationship within the normal standards of courtesy.
- Made Openly & Socially Acceptable. The GMET must be given or received in an open, transparent manner and in a business setting. It must also be socially acceptable i.e. other people (such as peers, competitors, or the press) would agree that the GMET is reasonable, and that it can be discussed without fear of possible reproach.
- Reasonable in Value. The entire GMET must be reasonable in value and neither lavish nor excessive.
- Appropriate & Occasional. The nature of the GMET must be appropriate to the business relationship and local custom, given or received occasionally according to local or industry standards, and not cause embarrassment by its disclosure.
- Accurately Recorded. GMET payments must be accurately and appropriately documented with reasonable detail. All receipts and / or proper documentation for all GMET expenses made or received shall be submitted to the C&E Officer for record purposes. All submissions must contain complete description as to time, place, and type of GMET; name title, and business affiliation of customers, Counter-Party or other persons entertained; and the business purpose.

If entertainment was provided in a place not normally conducive to a business discussion (theatre, sporting event, etc.), the requestor must show the date, time, duration, place, nature, and participants in the related business discussion preceding or following the entertainment.
